REPORT

Date June 1, 1937.

Subject The "Kih Kwang" (Sun Rays) Weekly Magazine (日光週刊).

With reference to the attached report, I have to state that there are two houses on Robison Road which bear the number "210". The number plate of one of the two houses is issued by the Chinese authorities and the other, by the S.M.C. Both of them are situated outside the Settlement.

Diligent enquiries have been made by detectives of this office but nothing was learned that would indicate that there is an organization known as the "Jih Cheh Cultural Society" or any other body which may likely be mistaken for the above society in existence, or making use of either of the two houses.

The house which bears the number plate issued by the Chinese authorities is one of the houses of the block called Tsing Yuen Li (清源里), west of Kiao Chow Road. It was formerly leased to the Boh Dah Dried Goods Shop which closed down in 1935 owing to business depression. Ever since that time it has not been let. At present the wife of the gatekeeper of Tsing Yuen Li, named Oong Tsung Zeu, occupies an upstairs room of the house. The woman is 55 years of age.

The other house on Robison Road which bears the number plate (210) issued by the S.M.C. also bears a number plate (NO.89) issued by the Chinese authorities. It is situated near Penang Road and is occupied by Ao Shiu Zung (敖秀成), a native of Kiangyin, and Chiang Shung Tsao, a native of Kiangsu, both of whom are working in the Japan China Cotton Mill.

Jili
Enquiries made in the vicinity of both houses as well as amongst workers of the Japan-China Cotton Mill failed to show that the occupants of either house have any connection
